

The Spiritual Significance Of Music

JUSTIN FOX BAND

I think God has a soft-spot for music. He was especially fond of David in the Old Testament, and David was a songwriter. David wrote poetry, was a master of melody, and originator of the Blues. God is in the details of music in some mysterious ways. There are lots of tools that He can use to show people His love. God uses compassion, service, science, nature, art, poetry, and hundreds of other things all the time. I think God loves using songs. It's like God has got a tool cabinet with little drawers full of all kinds of different things that draw His children toward Him. The one drawer at the top that God always goes to; the one with the affectionately worn handle and the faded label, reads "Songs". There is a divine magic when music and words weave together. May we keep our eyes open to each step in "God's Great Dance". Play on!
