VELNIAS

Everything spiritual is revolving in our consciousness. Our very core needs to be stimulated, aroused, and mesmerized. The mind has to be constantly nourished to broadened intellectual horizons. Otherwise the full potency of the self crowned I, as the highest of all beings, will lie dormant, quiver in the coldness of oblivion, and finally decay. There are several possibilities for mesmerizing our mind. Basically we need our senses in order to provide new aspects for our thoughts to feed upon. Music is a powerful tongue. If the listeners are capable of understanding this language it will directly appeal to the soul. Provided the listener is willing to open their inner sanctums for an essence of the audible landscapes. A certain trance like state can be established simply by accepting music to bypass your consciousness. Bypassing consciousness opens whole new possibilities for broadening your horizons. Music holds a great significance in spiritual matters. Music itself may reach from simple drum patterns to complex structures of classic composers. To take it a step further, we can reduce music to be not more than energetic vibrations. Our inner sanctum, as an oscillating body itself, is susceptible to any outside source of energy bursts. We can alter and affect our environment by channeling vigor. This explains in other words why music, seen as penciled energy, is regarded as the "silver tongue". Music holds great importance in altering your state of mind and your own spiritual evolution. Do remember that this is just one of the possible paths to walk upon.
