

UNEARTH

DEREK KERSWILL DRUMMER

For me, I've always gravitated towards positive and spiritual music. Not so much Christian based music, which I'm definitely not opposed to, but music with a positive and thought-provoking message. Growing up, music literally saved my life and I feel that these days, I'm trying to align myself with bands and artists that project something positive to give back what I got when I needed it most. There's plenty of negativity in this world, so why not do something positive, or at least challenge somebody's thought process in a uplifting manner. Playing music is the most meditative state I achieve and there's nothing better than being on stage, and in "the zone". To me, that's the most spiritual feeling in the world, and I'm thankful I have an outlet to creatively express myself.